

Making a difference in flood risk management

Last summer's floods were a wake-up call.
Mouchel is ready to respond.

More joined-up flood risk management may be the only way the UK can respond to floods more effectively. But it's not easy, with so many organisations and disciplines involved.

Mouchel is ideally positioned to change this.

We have solid strategic, design and operational experience in all the relevant disciplines, from fluvial and coastal defence to surface water collection, storage, drainage and control.

We have effective long-term relationships with the Environment Agency, local authorities, utility companies and internal drainage boards who share flood management responsibilities.

We deliver flood management services that make a difference in your communities. From risk assessment through to scheme approvals, design and implementation, Mouchel provides the expertise and support you need for effective flood management.

For more information please contact:
Simon Lewin
T 0151 242 7777
E simon.lewin@mouchel.com

www.mouchel.com